Mark Soresi, Director of Operations

REMAC's Field Services Division provides a broad range of demolition, specialty and selective demolition as well as a full array of environmental services — see below. From complex environmental demolition and remediation projects requiring extensive decontamination to total site restoration, we are fully equipped and prepared to handle your environmental infrastructure project, regardless of the size or the complexity.

Our team has over 50 years of environmental remediation experience and a long history of working with clients to successfully and safely complete demolition and environmental projects including hazardous and regulated waste disposal with little or no interruption to our client's daily operations. We take a practical and economic approach to all of field services work. If you so determine, we will minimize the amount of materials going into landfills by segregating them for reuse or recycling, thus reducing your carbon footprint and your liability. For every project, we perform the necessary pre-project preparations and prepare site-specific work schedules and safety plans in order to ensure that all work is completed on time, in regulatory compliance and according to your specifications.
